

You Might Be a Writer If:

- You manipulate conversations in your head
 - You go to the movies and don't remember what you saw because you were too busy thinking how you'd write it differently
 - You have a-ha! moments at awkward times
 - You dissociate from current situations because your characters are calling you to something better